

A group of six young women are posed in a studio setting against a plain grey background. They are wearing a variety of denim and white clothing items, including crop tops, jackets, skirts, and jeans, which represent Gap's brand repositioning. The women are arranged in two rows, with three standing in the back and three sitting or kneeling in the front. The overall aesthetic is modern and youthful.

Gap's Brand Repositioning

Brand Diagnosis

Company Overview

Parent Company: Gap, Inc. (also owns Old Navy, Banana Republic, Athleta)

Gap Flagship Brand: American casual basics; peaked in 90s as accessible, preppy fashion Revenue (FY24): $3.3B (Flat growth YoY); stable but slow store traffic and margin pressure

Current Internal Risks & Challenges: Brand relevance erosion, inventory imbalances, shift in consumer dynamics, more competition, store closures

Reinvigoration
Playbook

Current Strategy

Marketing Consistency

Category Expansion

Gap's Value Proposition

Causal,
all-American clothing that emphasizes authenticity and bridges generations with accessible,
classic pieces

Target Market

A group of four models (two men and two women) standing and wearing casual clothing. One man is wearing a dark hoodie with 'GAP' on it, and another woman is wearing a light blue denim jacket. The background is a plain, light color.

Primary Market

Millennials & Gen Z

Accessible, branded basics discovered through Tik Tok and Instagram

A family of four (a woman, a young girl, and a young boy) sitting on a white bench. The woman is wearing a blue patterned shirt, the girl is wearing a blue patterned shirt and a blue skirt, and the boy is wearing a blue patterned shirt and blue jeans. They are all wearing black boots. The background is a plain, light color.

Secondary Market

Families & Value Shoppers

Standardized outfits and seasonal staples gap x LOVESHACKFANCY

Competitive Landscape

Fast Fashion/Trend Retailers

Description: Fast fashion cycle, reactive to trends, younger consumer appeal

Examples: Zara, H&M

Basics/Value Retailers

Description: Quality basics, good value, strong supply chain

Examples: Uniqlo, Target, Amazon

Department Stores/Multi-Channel Retailers

Description: Wide selection, brand variety, good deals

Examples: Macy's, Nordstrom, TJ Maxx

Heritage/Premium Casual

Description: Product expertise and heritage cred, premium, strong in specific niches (denim)

Examples: Levi's, American Eagle, Abercrombie

Where Gap Sits in the Market

Target Audience Gen Z and Millenials who want affordable
yet stylish basics

Customer Goal
Express individuality through recognizable American styles

Frame of Reference
Mid-priced casual apparel and basics brands; Sits between value
retailer (Target) and premium
heritage (Levi's)

Evidence
Legacy in denim
and casual basics;
strong omnichannel reach and viral campaigns like
Better in Denim

Point of Difference
Heritage driven modern basics;
timeless American style reimagined

Why Gap must change Now?

Key Problems: An unclear identity, over-reliance on discounts, lagging cultural relevance, and weak digital presence.

Gap's heritage is strong but feels stuck in the past. Repositioning around sustainability, inclusivity, collaborations, and digital-first living can restore relevance.

Without change, Gap risks fading into a discount-only legacy chain.

Repositioning Strategies

Repositioning Option A: Sustainable Everyday Basics

Target Audience: Gen Z
& Millennials

Frame of Reference:
Uniqlo, Everlane, H&M
Conscious

Point of Difference:
Gap democratizes sustainable fashion through scale +
circular fashion

Customer Goal:
Affordable and stylish fashion that aligns with customer values

Evidence: Global supply chain, existing “Washwell” denim program, brand awareness

Repositioning Option B: Heritage American Lifestyle

- Target Audience: Young professionals & families seeking timeless, premium basics
- Frame of Reference: Aritzia, Everlane, Madewell, J.Crew
- Point of Difference: Revival of Gap's 90s logo through nostalgic storytelling + premium collaborations
- Evidence: Strong archives, past campaigns that defined the "modern American cool"
- Customer goal: Timeless style and nostalgic pieces rather than fast trends

Repositioning Option C: Digital-First Cultural Collaboration

- Target Audience: Gen Z trendsetters & digital natives
- Frame of Reference: Nike, Supreme, Shein's digital virality
- Point of Difference: Frequent, high-impact collaborations with artists, musicians, and digital creators — Gap as the platform “where culture meets casual”
- Evidence: Prior collaborations & brand flexibility
- Customer Goal: Novelty and cultural relevance of the brand expressed through content creators and icons

Proposed New Repositioning Strategy

Hybrid of Option B & C:

Authentic heritage + cultural collaborations

Positioning: Modern Heritage, Culturally Connected

Heritage roots = Authentic American Lifestyle

Collaborations = cultural edge
+ digital buzz

Distinct vs. Zara, Uniqlo, J.Crew

Builds lasting equity & attracts new audiences

Tactical Recommendations

Gap's Current 4Ps – Why They Fall Short

Product

Generic, discount-driven basics Limited differentiation & cultural relevance

Place

Mall-heavy footprint with declining traffic Weak experiential & digital-first presence

Promotion

Over-reliance on discounts
Minimal storytelling; limited cultural engagement

Price

Deep discounting erodes brand equity
No tiered strategy to reinforce value

Actionable Recommendations

Product

Relaunch heritage lines (denim, khakis) with modern fits & sustainable fabrics

Limited-edition collabs with artists & digital creators

Place

Flagship lifestyle stores with collab zones & storytelling corners

Pop-up activations in cultural hotspots (NYC, LA, campuses, festivals)

Strengthen e-commerce

Promotion

Campaign: Heritage Made Modern

Social-first collabs, global event tie-ins, Gen Z creators

Price

Affordable premium for basics; Scarcity-driven pricing for collabs

Reduce discounts and introduce loyalty rewards + exclusive member access

AI Generated Placeholder Imagery

AI-generated concepts showcasing how Gap can activate collaborations through pop-ups, social-first content, flagship takeovers, and cultural event tie-ins.

AI-generated mockups reimagining Gap's digital presence — from collab countdown drops and heritage archives to personalized loyalty rewards

AI as collaborator

- Data Visualization
- Analysis
 - Gap's current positioning
 - Competitors
 - Target Consumers
 - Market challenges
- Customer Insights
- Verification
 - Framework
 - 4P's
 - Brainstorming hybrid repositioning strategy
- Creating placeholder imagery for our suggested strategy

Where AI Was Lacking:

- Providing best actionable strategy & recommendations
- Developing reasoning for why certain strategies are better than others
- Finding real-time data points around financial performance
- Needed very specific prompting and examples to provide placeholder imagery for product ideas

Thank You!

WINNER OF 4 CLIO AWARDS