

Goldfish Marketing Campaign

Chilean
Sea Bass

NEW adult-sounding name.
SAME Goldfish® taste.

Team #6: Brianna Belisle, Jaren Kirkland, Brendan McDonald, Warit Lojanawanich, Sai Sathwik Peddireddy, Elaine Huang

Overview of the Campaign

"We know the love for Goldfish spans all ages. Chilean Sea Bass is a playful nod to adults that the iconic fish-shaped snack is for grown-up tastes too."

- Danielle Brown, Vice President of Goldfish

Goldfish temporarily changed its name to "Chilean Sea Bass" to appeal to adult snackers. Sold only for a week and only online from Oct 23-30, 2024.

The Problem

- Perception Challenge: Goldfish is widely seen as a snack for kids, limiting its appeal among older age groups.
- Campaign Goal: Reposition the brand to resonate with adults while maintaining its nostalgic charm.
- Strategic Approach: Leverage nostalgia, playful branding, sophistication and exclusivity to generate hype & attract a broader audience.

A kid's snack

Option for Adults

Segmentation, Targeting, & Positioning

- Market Segments: Children vs Adults Children are current market as the brand is known to be playful and typically associated with kids.
- Target: Adults
The brand wants to attract more adults that used to eat the tasty snack and to remind adults that goldfish are still a viable option amidst rising competition.
- Positioning: Chilean Sea Bass (and Goldfish) is the snack for adults who want to indulge in both tasty and nostalgic treats.

5 C's Analysis - Why is Goldfish targeting adults?

Company

Brand reputation:
Increase branding
and company
identity towards
maturity level

Internal capability:
- management
team with experience
- assets; maintain
manufacturing line
and food &
beverage expertise

Customers

Geographic: too
narrow for age
group which will hard to increase volume

Willingness to pay:
limited budget
which is challenging
to increase average
basket size

Competitors

Uniqueness: too
many options
without uniqueness
of products ex.
Pringle, lays, ritz

4 P's - Leveraging place to bypass retail constraints

Rebranded packages were available exclusively online at ChileanSeaBassCrackers.com

Limited Edition Chilean Sea Bass Crackers

$7.38 USD

Chilean Sea Bass is all sold out. Forever.

But good news! They're exactly the same as the Goldfish[®] crackers you know and love, available on Amazon and Instacart.

Benefits

- Reaches an audience that wants to engage with the brand digitally and reaches wider, global audiences
- Increases ability to use customer insights through online interactions to improve marketing and product development
- Greater flexibility in pricing, marketing, and product innovation

Challenges

- Greater ownership of inventory and logistics management
- Higher costs associated with direct to consumer shipping for low volume items
- Collaborators such as grocers may view online, direct-to-consumer sales as competition, diminishing relationships with key distributors

Effectiveness of the Campaign

Pros

- Generated significant social media attention - viral marketing effect
- Created sense of urgency and exclusivity because it was a limited time offer
- Generated subtle repositioning of Goldfish as a snack that can be enjoyed by adults

Cons

- Could lead to short term spike in attention but not long term loyalty
- Could create confusion among consumers with temporary name change
- Could dilute Goldfish's established family-friendly brand identity weakening its association with its core audience of parents and children

Public Response: Did it work? & What do consumers think?

JB Judith Beck

23 October, 2024

As it brings up the concept of actual fish flavor, the new name is repulsive. And those who like fish-flavored snacks, go to any Asian grocery and get shrimp chips.

Reply · 👍 24 · Share

JB John Bonham

23 October, 2024

Big mistake, if it's not broke dont fix it. Remember New Coke?

Reply · 👍 97 · Share

O Ootini

23 October, 2024

Is it April Fool's day already?

Reply · 👍 6 · Share

Limited Edition Chilean Sea Bass Crackers

$7.38 USD

Chilean Sea Bass is all sold out. Forever.

But good news! They're exactly the same as the Goldfish® crackers you know and love, available on Amazon and Instacart.

Online only in Oct last week with new drops everyday @ 9AM; sold out in minutes

Faced Resistance but... still a success!